

Computer Hardware

Poster

Applied Technology 26-27

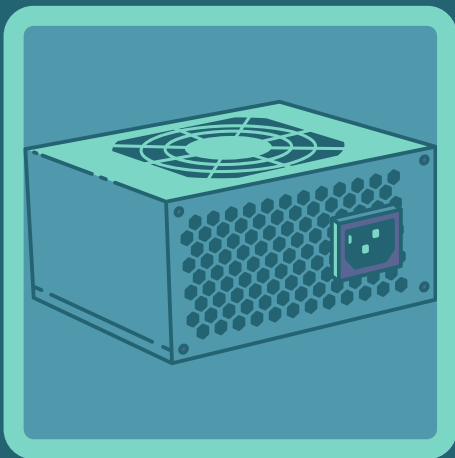

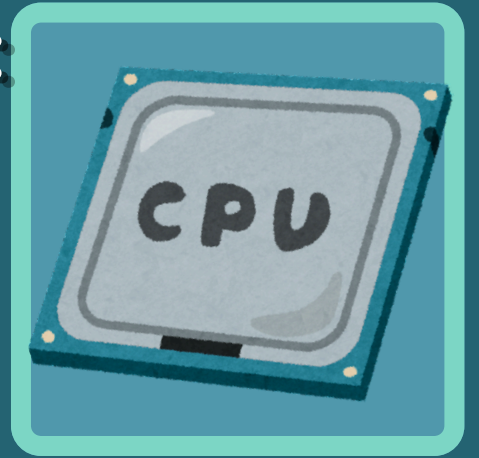

Case:

A structural case to protect and cover the inner parts of a computer

CPU:

Acts as the brain of the computer. Processes and operates programs

Central Processing Unit

PSU:

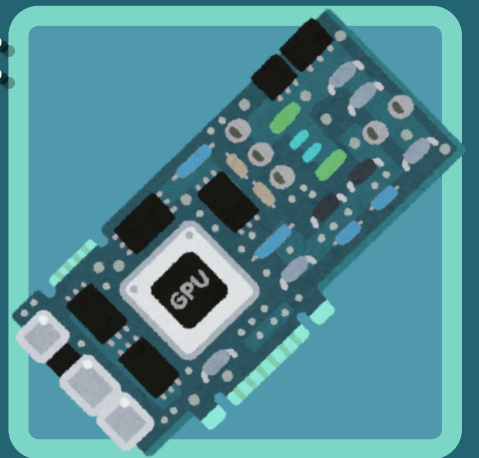

Converts high voltage AC to low voltage DC

Power Supply Unit

GPU:

A processing chip that processes graphical data

Graphics Processing Unit

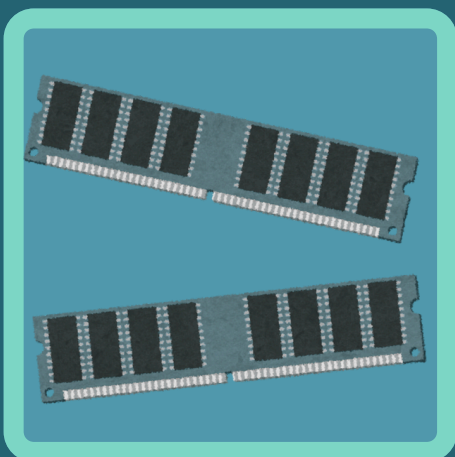

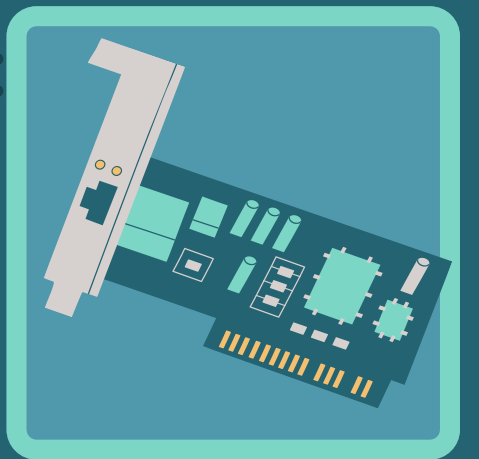

Motherboard:

A printed circuit board that holds the CPU

NIC:

A circuit board or chip that enables the computer to connect to WIFI

Network Interface Card

RAM:

A temporary storage for quick unloading

Random Access Memory

Mouse:

Control the computer by pointing and clicking within the monitor

HDD/SSD

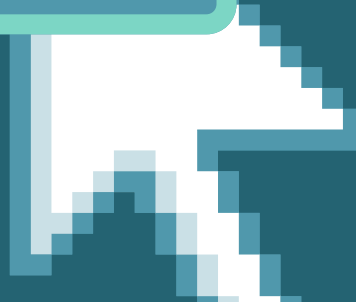

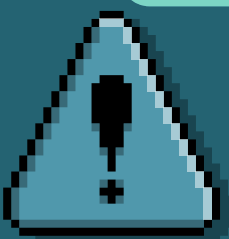

HDD: Devices that store both permanent and temporary data

SSD: Devices that safely store data even when the computer is off.

Hard Disk Drive & Solid State Drive

Keyboard:

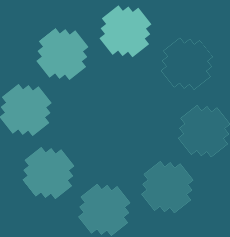

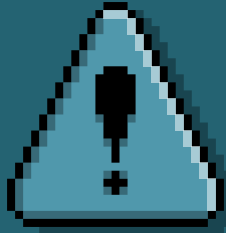

A device that types things inside a computer to add text or command

Computer Hardware

Poster

Applied Technology 26-27

Monitor:

A device that displays things visually through a screen

Optical Drive:

A device that uses laser to analyze and read CDs inside a computer

